LATIMER CAUGHT.

The Escaped Prison Convict Cleverly Captured.

He Walked Into a Country Store to Buy a Pair of Boots and Was Detected—His Story.

JACKSON, Mich., March 29.—It was 9 o'clock last night when a man entered a country store here and asked for a pair of boots.

A young man standing by whispered in the clerk's ear: "That's Latimer."

The clerk nearly fell down.

"Run out and tell father," he said faintly to the man who had recognized Latimer. The young man slipped out of the store to inform the proprietor.

By this time Latimer, who had caught on to the fact that he was recognized, left the store, having purchased a cheap pair of boots, a pair of socks and a pair of buck mittens.

He passed between two stores, struck the railroad track, followed it a short distance, and took the traveled road back the way he had come. Coming to the road leading to Hudson, he started up that. He did not run, but walked at a good clip.

After a few moments of confusion at the store, the two young men followed down the road and soon overtook Latimer. They were walking along by the side of him, fearing to lay hands on him, when the constable, who had joined the pursuit, drove up and jumped from the buggy. He tapped Latimer on the breast, saying:

"You are Latimer; I want you."

"Who is Latimer?" smilingly enquired the fugitive innocently.

"You are, and I want you."

"I never heard of Latimer, as I know it," insisted the convict.

He made no resistance whatever, but walked back a mile and a half to the village side by side with his captor. He was all tired out and could not have made any sort of resistance if he had wished to.

In paying for the boots and other articles, Latimer handed out one of the $5 gold pieces taken from the pocket of George Haight, whom he had murdered twenty-four hours before. Latimer was recognized by his striped shirt, which he tried to keep covered up, and by his prison trousers.

Said one of his captors: "Latimer did not get a bit excited when he seemed to understand we know him. He spoke slowly, made change deliberately, and then walked slowly. He is a devil of a cool chap."

JACKSON, Mich., March 29.—Coming over from Jerome Latimer told the following story to T. Lowrey, one of his captors:

"I intended to escape, if I could, all the time," he said. "I studied up the medicines which I knew would act the quickest and do the work effectively, but I never intended to kill any one. I read books on poisons and found that by diluting prussic acid to a certain degree it would act safely and suddenly. I wanted to fix it so I could make the night guards unconscious for an hour. No man on guard knew a thing of what I intended to do. All officers about the prison are absolutely blameless of anything that has happened. I am sorry that Haight is dead. I only intended to make him sick, the same as Gill. I must have made the solution stronger than I thought. The officers can see I am telling the truth by looking at the book in my cell, where I read how to dilute the prussic acid. The story of buried money in Rhode Island I invented to interest and please Gill. I saw he was easy to believe the story and kept it up."

Latimer said he got his clothes from a man three miles south of Jackson. He woke up the man at a farm house and told him he was destitute of clothing and had to have something to wear. He told the man he had been stealing a ride on the train and lost his clothes from the top of a car.

After leaving Soule's farmhouse, near Horton, Monday morning, Latimer ran into a swamp between there and Moscow. In jumping from one log to another he slipped and hurt his ankle. It pained him so much that for a time he could not walk. Finally he got through the swamp and struck a sort of camping place. He found an old tin pail and built a fire. He put water in the pail and heated it, tore the lining out of his coat, dipped the pieces in the hot water and applied them to his ankle.

He staid there until he saw a man coming through the woods carrying a gun. He had just time to conceal himself in the hollow of a standing tree when the man saw the fire and came to it. He saw his, Latimer's, tracks in the earth and stooped down to look at them closely. The gun seemed to bother him and he cut it up against a tree and went into the swamp. As soon as he got out of sight Latimer slipped out of the tree, took the gun and went through the woods as fast as he could. He carried the gun three hours and then as it tired him to carry it he hid it under a bridge.

Mr. Lowrey says that the people at Jerome were greatly excited about Latimer's capture and a number brought out ropes to hang him. He induced them to use no violence however.

Regarding the occurrences of Sunday night, Latimer said: "Gill said I might carry some of our luncheon up to Haight. Before taking it up I made the lemonade and put in a mixture of opium and prussic acid. I passed the stuff through the grating, and after Haight drank the lemonade I came down and Gill got the same dose. It was my intention to treat them both alike. It was the crack of the dishes that made my plans miscarry. It brought Rice to the scene and he disarranged everything. Haight was quiet, Gill was nearly helpless and I would have had everything to myself if it had not been for the crash of the dishes. I would have locked the guards in, and left the prison with a valve containing good clothing and two revolvers, and been 200 miles away before they could have gotten after me."

"When Rice and I got in where Haight was dying, I told him I had sung for the warden. If Rice had raised his gun at me I never would have escaped, but he got rattled. I told him to go into the little room to take care of Haight, and he went like an obedient child. When he was out of sight I ran to the front door, which I had previously unlocked, and escaped."

Latimer says he spent yesterday between Hanover and Moscow. Last night a Mrs Trieto, near Jerome gave him a good supper. He went from there to a Mr. Gore's to get some clothing, and he advised him to go to the Jerome store. "I went and there you are. The game nuble had me out."

DAMAGING TESTIMONY

Proposed by the State in the Lafayette Riot Cases.

Eye Witnesses Continue to Give Their Version of the Attack on Rudolph, the Lecturer.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 29.—Yesterday morning when court convened the audience was the smallest since the trial began. As the evidence progressed, however, the crowd increased. The trial of Peter J. Clark, so the court announced, will follow the Murphy case.

The defendants have not yet intimated what the line of defense will be, and so far the public has not the remotest idea. As the case stands, the state has by several witnesses established the fact that the defendant Murphy, fired at Rudolph. All the witnesses place him in about the same position in the house. One peculiarity of the fact that a number of Protestant clergy of the city seem to be spending their spare time in the court room. Prominent among the visitors is the Rev. William Wirt Hing, whose recent sermon in denunciation of the Roman Catholic church was pronounced the most bitter ever delivered in this city against any religious or other organization.

One other thing has developed, and it is that the audience that went out to hear a public lecture, contained many persons who were armed. The evidence, thus far, differs materially as to the number of shots that were fired in the house during the riot. But during the after scenes revolvers were freely flourished. It transpires that Rudolph himself had a revolver; this he used. One witness has testified that City Councilman Frank Cropp, who was in the stage, had a revolver, which he was swinging around promiscuously, frightening people off the stage. Four or five persons have sworn that the defendant, Murphy, had a revolver and Whitney Thompson told of having a weapon and with shooting at one of the assailants of the professor on the stage; Peter J. Clark, one of the accused, whose trial is to come next on the calendar, had a large revolver which he pointed at people and warned them to stand back, so it justifies the suggestion that there was too much unusual appearance upon both sides of the case—both members of the A. P. A. organization and of the Catholic defendants, who are accused of breaking up the meeting.

Whitney Thompson testified to attending the opera house meeting, and to the fact that it was broken up. He saw a man come on the stage with a long pole, and a second man with a heavy club; the man with the pole struck at the speaker several times. The professor was hit, and partially knocked down; there was pistol shooting going on, and believing that the speaker was overpowered, and about to be killed, he stepped down to the edge of the stage, and taking deliberate aim at the man with the pole he (witness) fired one shot from his 38-calibre revolver. He aimed at the chest of the man but did not think he hit him. This witness contradicted Rudolph's testimony, point blank, on the question of the number of times the professor shot. Rudolph himself, in the examination, swore that he never fired but one shot, and that this was aimed about four inches to one side of the shoulder of the man who was striking at him with the pole. Thompson testifies that Rudolph shot twice, while others corroborate both Rudolph and Thompson. The professor's pistol is said to have had but one empty chamber when the fracas was over.

There is a great deal of conflict in the testimony as to where the first shot came from. Some have sworn that the first shot came from the audience, while others as positively state that the first report was from the scenery at the east side of the house. James Martin testified that the first shot came from the stage.

One witness, Frank Higman, testified to something entirely new. He saw a man come out on the edge of the stage and, holding his revolver pointed down toward the floor, fire two shots. There are no holes in the floor, so that the shooter must have had blank cartridges in his pistol or the witness was deceived. This witness testified to hearing the cries of "hang him!" "kill him!" "shoot him!" and other bloodcurdling expressions.

BRIDAL GIFTS.

As the Post-Lenten Season is to be One of Many Weddings,

Here Are a Few Suggestions in Regard to the Presents—Society Affairs—Personal Items.

The new thing about wedding presents permits the bride to make out a list of the articles which she would like best to have her friends send her as gifts, to have this list typewritten, and to send it out with the wedding cards. As the presents come in the bride or whoever happens to be looking after her interests while she is busy with her trousseau, checks them off, and after a short time a corrected list of articles desired is forwarded to those friends who have not yet been heard from. A second and even a third corrected list is sent later. Or the bride at the start may make up two or three lists, sending the list of very expensive gifts to wealthy friends and the best expensive to those who cannot afford to give much. The plan is a good one, and breaks up the old scheme of flooding a bride with pickle jars and glass cake and fruit stands. How extensively the new idea has been adopted is not known, but it is practicable and seemsensible, though, perhaps, a little cheeky. When the fact is taken into consideration that no housekeeper ever sees too many towels, sheets, and pillow cases and that after a wedding silver is not infrequently a drug on the market, the present fashion of giving the former articles to ladies is to be commended. The sort selected are being stitched and are marked with the engraved initials or monogram of the bride. There are handsome but inexpensive designed expressly for these articles intended as a bridal present, and it is proper thing to add a handsomely embroidered linen sachet filled with lavender.

WHO WE HEAR OF.

Yesterday afternoon, at his residence, on Montgomery street, Pastor Northrop performed the marriage ceremony which made Meinhard Reiling an enterprising young man of this city the husband of Miss Ida Reed, of Jackson, Mich., a very estimable young lady. Two sisters of the bride, Mattie Reed and Mrs. Jennie Russell both of this city, were present to witness the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Reiling have the good wishes of their many friends in this city.

At 6 o'clock last evening the pastor found his way to the home of Mr. Mary K. Bowser, 51 High street, when he joined in holy wedlock Mr. William Pfaumer, an employee of the Pennsylvania company, and Miss Grace Bowser, a charming and popular young lady of the east side. A number of intimate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony. An elegant wedding supper was served at 7 o'clock, after which Mr and Mrs Pfaumer left for their new home on John street, in this city.

IS WM. BOYLE DEAD?

His Wife Suing in Our Courts on a $2,000 Insurance Policy.

The Interesting Case of Mrs. Anna Boyle Against the Supreme Council of the C. B. L.

A case of considerable interest and one involving a number of novel points will come up for trial before Judge Pancost and a jury in Our superior court next Wednesday.

It is the case of Anna Boyle against the supreme council of the Catholic Benevolent Legion, and is brought to recover $2,000 on a life insurance policy issued about seven years ago by the legion to William Boyle, the husband of the plaintiff in the case, he being a member of the St. Julian Council of the legion in this city.

The attorneys in the case are W. A. Ege, Leonard for the plaintiff, Anna Boyle, and William F. Breen for the defendant, the Catholic Benevolent Legion.

The novel point about the suit is the denial on the part of the defendants that the husband of the plaintiff is dead, the petition alleging that his death occurred by drowning while he was bathing in Lake Michigan, at South Chicago, on the evening of July 11, 1891. No person saw him go into the lake, no person saw him while bathing, and no person can positively testify to his drowning, his body, even, never having been recovered, but as the story is his death, as told, is an interesting one, THE SENTINEL will here repeat it as it will be told by the evidence in the case, first prefacing it, however, with something about his life up until his alleged drowning at Chicago.

William Boyle was married twenty-eight years ago, at Reese Cassel, in this county, by Father Myers, a Catholic minister, to Miss Anna Shaughnessy, a young woman about sixteen years of age. He had formerly lived in Paulding county, Ohio, where his parents resided, but after his marriage he worked on a farm in this county, following that occupation for nearly twenty-four years. Then he removed to this city, first taking employment as a car inspector of the Pennsylvania railroad; then as a helper in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, and then conducting a restaurant on Harrison street, in this city.

About two years ago, with his wife and children, he moved to Chicago, there he worked until the time of his alleged death. While living in Fort Wayne he became a member of the St Julian council of the Catholic Benevolent Legion, which issues to its members an insurance, and it is on the membership policy that Mrs. Boyle sues to recover $2,000.

About 7:30 o'clock, on the evening of the 11th day of July, 1891, Mrs Boyle and other witnesses say, Boyle left his home in South Chicago, saying that he was going to bathe in Lake Michigan, about a mile away.

This was the last seen of him. Not returning home by midnight, his wife and others began a search for him. The police were notified, and going to the lake, his clothes, consisting of coat, pants, vest, shirt, hat, shoes and socks, were found on a stump near the lake side. A search was made for his body, the waters of the lake were dredged, but it was never found.

Mrs. Boyle is now a little past forty three years of age. She says she was married to Boyle when she was only sixteen years old, and that they now have nine children. She does not know how old her husband was at the time of his disappearance in Chicago. She says he did not know himself exactly. He was born in Germany and came to this country when he was quite a young man and that at the time of her marriage to him he was a tall brown man, but did not wear a beard. On the evening that he left home to bathe in the lake she says he took a towel and soap with him and that she accompanied him part of the way. His last words to her were: "Ma, I will be home in just a little while." I never saw him again" she says. "When he did not return after midnight I became alarmed and called my son-in-law, Mr. Garvity. He got up and went to the police station to find out if they had learned anything about William. They then went down to the lake and found his clothes on a stump. He wore his old clothes when he left home. The search for him was continued for many days. The waters of the lake were dredged but nothing has ever been heard of him to this day. I believe he is dead. We have nine children. My parents are dead but he has a sister, Mrs. John Gibson, living in this county."

Is William Boyle dead? If so, there is no doubt but that his widow can recover the sum of $2,000 from the Catholic Benevolent Legion. The case of his wife hangs entirely upon circumstantial evidence. What kind of testimony can she introduce in support of her claim that he was drowned? Will the facts as narrated above be sufficient to prove it? Will the testimony of the lighthouse keeper, the wharfmaster and others, that men are frequently drowned in the lake and their bodies never recovered, be admissible? Will the fact that for nearly two years he has not been seen or heard of be sufficient proof that he is no longer living? These and other interesting questions will be been which the lawyers will discuss in the police and [illegible]

It is reported that [illegible] Boyle is now living in South Chicago, persons who knew him are confident of it. It is doubtful if he could be induced at the trial to prove that he is living, as he would be liable to be arrested and compelled to disclose his whereabouts to the court, and to refund the legion out of the amount of the mortgage.

It will also be urged by the defense that Boyle used deception at the time his life policy was issued to him by representing himself to be only thirty-five years of age, when he was several years older.

The trial promises to be an interesting one and will be hotly contested by both sides.

LAID TO REST.

The Late John Wilson Buried at New Haven This Afternoon—Other Deaths and Funerals.

The funeral of the late John Wilson took place this afternoon. Brief services were held at the family residence, No 34 Lavina street, at 1 o'clock. They were conducted by Rev. Samuel Wagenhals, of the Trinity English Lutheran church. After these services the college left for New Haven, where other services were held at the M. E. church, Rev Stephen A. Northrop delivered the sermon. The interment was held in the odd Fellows cemetery at that place. The pall bearers were: Robert Ogden, Martin Argo, Louis Maples, John Tinkham, William Wilding and Wm. Baker. The services at this city and also at New Haven were largely attended.

Monday occurred the death of Cynthia Bohman at the home of her husband, Louis Bohman, in Washington township. Mrs. Bohman died in childbirth. Her age was thirty-five years. The funeral occurred today from the residence at Acadamie station.

Dr. Herrmann, aged seventy-six years, of 176 Clay street, a collector for the Staats Zeitung, died at an early hour this morning. He had been in feeble health for some time. The direct cause of his death was chronic diarrhea. The funeral will be held on Friday at 2 o'clock from the house and 2:30 from the Grace lutheran church, on Pontiac street Rev Stellhorn officiating. The deceased leaves a wife and two children.

Word was received in this city last evening announcing the death of Edward Vogel at the Cook county poor house, Chicago. The deceased is well known in this city, where he has several children. He was for a long time engaged on the tailor business. He went to Chicago about eight months ago.

The funeral of the late Al Emerson will be held tomorrow at the Baptist church, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Northrop officiating. An inquest was held this morning by Coroner Harrod. Nothing new was developed. The death was due entirely to an accident, mention of which was made in these columns some days ago.

THE COURTS.

The Vordermark Case at Bluffton—Local News.

Justice Ryan sent three tramps to jail this morning.

Meinhard Reiling and his Reed, William Pfaumer and Grace Bowser have been licensed to wed.

Mary Buskirk, executrix, sues Daniel J. Buskirk et al on petition to make deed. M. V. B. Spencer is attorney.

Christian Scherer sues Adam Dentlebock et al on action to quiet title. Gregory Lauer sues Gustav Lauer et al to enforce lien. Demand $275. C. W. Kunne is attorney in both cases.

In the Vordermark case Judge Dally reduced the alimony to $1 900, and refused a new trial. Both the defense and prosecution took exception to the decision and the case will probably be appealed.

SHOVING THE QUEER.

Lieutenant Lapp Drops Upon a Smooth Stranger.

Winfield Lyburger Arrested While Trying to Pass a Counterfeit $50 Greenback.

Messrs. A. Levi & Bro., clothing dealers, of No 88 Barr street, came very near taking in a $50 counterfeit greenback this morning.

At about 8:30 o'clock a stranger entered the store and began to look about him as if hesitating over what to purchase. The man wore a heavy beard and had a red handkerchief tied around his neck. He had on rubber boots, was dressed very commonly and looked like a laboring man out of employment. He was apparently about thirty-five years of age.

Moses Levi, senior member of the firm, stepped up to the prospective customer and asked him what he wished to purchase. The stranger replied that he wanted a suit of clothing and stated that he was in a hurry. He examined a $10 suit and seemed about to buy when, changing his mind he started out of the store. As he was leaving, some watches in a show case attracted his attention. Stopping, the man asked Moses the price. "Four dollars for those fine gold and silver watches," said Moses. After some little bargaining and hesitating, the stranger decided to purchase a suit of clothes for $10, a watch and chain for $4 and some other articles, the whole bill amounting to $15.75. For the payment of these goods he handed over to Moses a $50 greenback. The storekeeper picked up the bill and examined it quite closely. The money was very ragged and had been patched up with court plaster. The storekeeper noticed his customer was very nervous and the fellow spoke up and said: "The bill is a little torn but it is all right. Give me the change for I am in a hurry and I have a doctor bill to pay this morning." Mr. Levi did not have the change just at that hour and handed the bill to his brother, Abraham, to take out and get the change.

IT WAS COUNTERFEIT.

Abraham Levi took the greenback over to the Fairmonte Gas company's office. The clerk said that it was a little early for change and, examining the bill, pronounced it suspicious. Abraham then took the $50 and went over to the First National bank to learn if it was really a counterfeit. The suspected money was there pronounced a counterfeit at once. In an official monthly publication, known as "Dyer Government Counterfeit Detector," published at Philadelphia, the bill was found to be thus described:

"$50. C. dated March 10th, 1862. Act of February 25th, 1862. Series, 1. One of the convertible series. An inferior counterfeit. Engraving badly executed. Vignette head of Hamilton defective; the nose of the portrait runs to an unnatural sharp point, and there is a peculiar dish to the counterfeit not seen in the genuine. Numbering imperfect. Plate captured."

Abraham wanted no further evidence. He ran back to the natural gas office and telephoned to police head quarters. Lieut. Henry Lapp was at the station and answered the ring.

AT LEVI BROTHERS'.

Levi Brothers' establishment is directly across the street from police head quarters and all the lieutenant had to do was to walk across the street and take in his man. When the fellow saw the blue coat coming in the door he began to tremble violently. He was loud in his protestations of innocence and said that he did not know the money was spurious.

He told the lieutenant that his home was in Van Wert county and that he came to this city on an early train this morning. He gave his name as Winfield Lyburger, and stated that he was a ditcher by occupation. Lieutenant Lapp took his prisoner over to United States Commissioner Leonard's office. There he was bound over in the sum of $500 for a preliminary hearing, set for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Failing to give bond Lyburger was taken off to jail.

THE PRISONER'S INTERVIEWER.

A few moments after being locked up the prisoner was interviewed by a SENTINEL representative. He had just been given a shave by a number of other prisoners and was minus his long beard, making him look twenty years younger. His hair was combed and he was quite "spruced" up. This is a way the other prisoners have of amusing themselves when "fresh fish" come to the jail. Even the turnkey hardly knew his man when the reporter entered the corridor. Lyburger came up to the bars and said: "I was born in Ohio and am a common laborer. I have worked at odd jobs in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. I walked into Fort Wayne last night from Whitley county, where I have been all winter with my cousins. I have been sick in bed most of the time and was on my way to Van Wert where I also have relatives. I did not know the $50 bill was counterfeit. I got it from a man from Chicago last November, when I was working in Woodford county, Illinois. Had been trading with this gentleman and also did some work for him and took the $50 in payment. I hadn't the least idea that it was no good.

"As to my character you can write to any of my friends at Metamore, Ill. They will tell you that I am honest and wouldn't pass a counterfeit one-cent piece. The name of the man who gave me the bill was Latham. I have never tried to pass it since it was given me."

"How does it come that you walked to this city when you had what you thought was a genuine $50 greenback in your pocket?" was asked of the prisoner.

This was a hard question for Mr. Winfield Lyburger to answer and he got around it by saying that he wanted to tell the rest of the story to an attorney. He is evidently what the police term a "smooth one."

METHODISTS MEET.

The Session of the North Indiana M. E. Conference.

The Preliminary Meeting of the Regular Session Which Was Begun at Mishawaka.

MISHAWAKA, Ind., March 29.—The fiftieth session of the North Indiana M. E. conference began last evening with a semi centennial service conducted by H. A. Kemp, pastor of the Mishawaka church. Addresses were made by some of the veterans of the conference, A. E. Mahin, G. W. Bowers, M. D. Parr, F. J. Allright and C. H. Brown speaking.

Most of the members of the conference have arrived, and the candidates for admission on trial and recommendation for orders were examined by the respective committees.

The first business session began this morning at 8:30, Bishop T. W. Joyce presiding. In the afternoon occurred the anniversary of the Epworth Leagues and the veteran's service; also, the pentecostal and revival services, and Freedmen's Aid and southern education anniversary services. Bishop J. F. Hurst is present and assisted in the Epworth League meeting this afternoon.

E. KIRBY SMITH.

Death of the Old Confederate General at Sewanee, Tenn.

SEWANEE, Tenn., March 29.—Gen. E. Kirby Smith, professor of mathematics in the University of the South since 1875, died here last evening. For two years his health has been declining. Two weeks ago he was taken sick in New Orleans.

General Smith was born in St. Augustine, Fla., May 16, 1824, and was, therefore, in the sixty-ninth year of his age. With him closes the list of full generals on both sides during the late war, his commission as full general in the confederate service having been issued February 9, 1864.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Congress Will be Convened in the Autumn.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—To a few congressmen who have talked with him on the subject, President Cleveland has intimated that he will call an extra session of congress in September or October to dispose of the tariff question.

Ed Weber, who has been working for Moellering Bros. for eleven years, has resigned his position and is now associated with Henry Bickey, the East Lewis street grocer.

How's Your Liver?

If the Oriental is a nation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood: frequent headache ensues, a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

THE Northern Indiana conference of the M. E. church began at Mishawaka today. All of the Methodist ministers of this city are in attendance.

THE city council, at their meeting last night, decided to postpone the election of a councilman in the Sixth ward, to succeed Mr. Fox, until the next regular meeting. City Attorney Shambaugh decided that the council had the right to elect a councilman to fill the vacancy.

THE council committee to whom was referred the task of drafting a new liquor license ordinance failed to report at last night's meeting of the council. They were instructed to report at the next meeting, and then the question of the proposed increase will come up for discussion. The sentiment in favor of a $250 license is growing.

THE SENTINEL is pleased to learn that Mr. Sam E. Morss, the editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, is rapidly regaining his health at Asheville, N. C., where he is at present. In a letter from that place he says he does not know when he will leave for Paris to assume the position to which the president recently appointed him. He says that the position was unsought by him, either directly or indirectly. He is as yet undecided who will take editorial charge of his paper.

THE multiplication of free schools in Mexico and the enforcement of the compulsory educational system in that country is a matter of particular interest to America. The progressive policy inaugurated in the southern republic by President Diaz will aid materially in lifting Mexico for the close commercial relations which it must ultimately sustain toward the United States. Every school house which is built in Mexico promotes the success of our self-government there, and lessens the chances of revolution and political disorder.

EVERY citizen should unite with the health authorities in their efforts to give the city a thorough cleaning Next Monday the sanitary police will start out on their work and every order, alley, yard and vault in the city limits will be inspected and where any violation of law is found notice will be given the owner or lessee to remedy the same or suffer prosecution. A few days later the sanitary policemen will revisit the places and all who failed to obey the former notice will be arrested. By enforcing the laws it is hoped that our city will escape the contagion this year of any serious epidemic.

MR. JOHN D. WOODS, banker and philanthropist, of Cleveland, died, died yesterday, at Augusta, Ga. Mr Woods was known to be a man of large wealth. During the last five years he practically settled his estate. In brief he gave away the bulk of his fortune. His gifts to the medical department of the Western Reserve university have aggregated $[illegible]. To the Worcester college he gave $[illegible] and to many other similar institutions he gave generous sums. Mr. Woods was a man who gave quietly and privately, and in all cases public information concerning his gifts came through those benefited. He was seventy-three years old.

Agricultural Progress.

Returns of the United states department of agriculture show that the farm of some of the oldest states of the union have reason to pride themselves upon their methods of agriculture, and to assert that their fields, though very old, are presented by their care of them from becoming exhausted. A table prepared by the department, showing the estimated yield per acre by states of certain crops in the year 1891, brings out the fact that the state which produced the highest average yield per acre of corn is the state which perhaps has the poorest lands of all the states, and certainly the oldest fields—to wit, Massachusetts. The average yield of corn per acre in that state in the year 1891 was forty bushels. In Maine it was thirty-eight and in Vermont more than forty-seven, while the granite hills of New Hampshire, where the land is reputed "too poor to raise a disturbance on," yielded more than thirty-five bushels to the acre, which was a greater average than that obtained in any state of the union except Nebraska and Iowa, although California was but a fraction behind New Hampshire. In the production of potatoes the leadership of the old and naturally sterile states is quite as great. Maine leads all other states in the number of bushels of potatoes produced to the acre, and is the equal of any other state in their quality. In other crops the disparity is shown. Massachusetts and Connecticut raise more than twice as many pounds of tobacco to the acre as any southern state. These excellent results in the New England states are obtained by careful cultivation. If similar methods were followed everywhere, the food-producing capacity of the country would be more than doubled.

It used to be the custom, and may be now in certain barbarous countries, that in punishing a man for crimes not only was his wife and property sacrificed, but those of all his nearest relatives. One would be led to think we were approaching that order of things in this country from the reports in the daily papers. In the eagerness for the sensational reports of the act of a notorious criminal, not only is his portrait given in public print, but those of his wife or children and the details of the private life of his family. The sacredness of family circles, that merely had the fortune to be related to the transgressor and in no way accountable for his acts, are invaded to pander only to morbid curiosity. There is no public call for such note, they are simply outrages on the community.

"Keep Your Mouth Shut" is the singular title of a little book which has recently been printed. The author is of the medical profession, and explains in a clear and comprehensive way many of the ills to which flesh is heir to because of breathing through the mouth rather than through the nostrils. It is true that a gross ignorance of the simplest law of hygiene is responsible for much of the disease of humanity, and the author's emphatic advice ought to be heeded. The same advice, indeed, could be offered to many a young man who is anxious to succeed in life. The silent man often succeeds where a garrulous man makes a failure.

As Oshkan recalls that bituminous coal was literally free fifty or sixty years ago in the eastern part of Ohio to such persons as chose to dig it where it cropped out, and it was not uncommon to see the industrious citizen returning from some hillside, his wheelbarrow laden with enough free coal to warm him the better part of a week. This was in the days when eggs were three and ten cents a dozen in Ohio and squirrels so plentiful that farmers' lads killed them with sticks as the nimble creatures scampered along the fences.

The doom of another educational fad is sealed, writes a Paris correspondent. The French Association of Volapuk[illegible] has dissolved. The most energetic apostle of the language which was expected to set right the confusion caused by the affair at Babel has recently taken the post of professor of German in a provincial college. There have been other setbacks, and the great subject of reforming the linguistic evils of the world has been abandoned, as far as Paris is concerned.

BUILDING AND LOAN.

Ought the Stock of These Associations to Be Taxed?

That Question Answered in the Negative, and Reasons Given Therefor.

[illegible]

I write this letter at the request of a number of persons interested in building and loan associations, who feel that the subject herein treated is not rightly understood by the general public.

Is it just and right that the stock of building and loan associations should be exempt from taxation? I answer "Yes," and as briefly as possible will give some of the reasons on which I base that assertion.

At the outset let it be distinctly understood that every dollar in a building and loan association is taxed once. The question to be considered is whether it should be taxed twice. Double taxation is admitted by everybody to be unjust, oppressive and vicious. It is only tolerated because of the difficulties surrounding the problem of so amending our laws as to put our wrongs of that manifest injustice. Let me illustrate. On East Berry street stand two houses exactly alike. Each we will consider worth $2,000. They are purchased by Mr. A. and Mr. B. being a man at means Mr. A. pays cash for his house and it goes upon the tax duplicate at any $2,000. Mr. B is a poor man and is unable to pay but a $1,000 down upon his property, the remaining $3,000 being left on mortgage. Forthwith comes the tax assessor and his house is listed for taxation at $2,000, the same as his rich neighbor, and then to this $2,000 is added another $3,000 on the mortgage that he owes. Here there are two houses, exactly alike, one owned by a rich man and taxed at $2,000, the other owned by a poor man and taxed at $5,000. Will anybody defend such an injustice as that? And yet, that is exactly the principle every person is advocating who seeks the taxation of our building and loan associations. But, perhaps, it is answered, the owner of the property only pays one tax on the $2,000, while the second tax is paid by the capitalist who holds the mortgage. Not by any means. The mortgagee upon which our people are paying 7 per cent. could be had at 5 per cent., but for the double taxation we inflict, so it is evident both taxes fall upon the owner of the property.

I submit, therefore, whether we ought not to seek some way out of the injustice of the double taxation we already inflict, rather than seek to extend the evil further by unjustly burdening the thousands of our mechanics, clerks and laboring men who are seeking to secure homes of their own through the medium of our building and loan associations?

But I am asked ought not the "paid up" stock in these associations be taxed? I answer that of all the investment stock, that should be the last taxed. Why?

1. Because it pays the smallest return to its owner.

2. Because it is the cheap money thus obtained which has enabled the associations which procure it to greatly lessen their interest and premium charges made to those who borrow money from them with which to build homes.

3. Because without the money thus obtained the supply of funds would again become insufficient and with two men after every dollar the associations had to loan, the premium would again run up to the exhorbitant figure reached four years ago.

It would be bad public policy to tax "paid up" stock because that stock is today putting more properly upon the tax duplicate, that was never there before, than any other instrumentality at work in that direction. Much of the money that goes into that stock is drawn from stocking legs, trunks and bureau drawers and occasionally from our banks, in none of which places was it ever reached for assessment for taxation. As soon as it comes into the hands of a building and loan association it is put into a home and is thus ever after found upon the assessor's blank.

It is a mistake to suppose that this six per cent. interest bearing stock is taken by the rich men of our community. They can do better with their money. It comes chiefly from widows, school teachers, clerks, mechanics and laboring men who want an absolutely safe place for their little earnings where a moderate interest can be had.

It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless true, that for some years efforts have been made in this community to work up a public sentiment in favor of a double tax on all moneys handled by building and loan associations. The county commissioners, the county assessor and the county auditor are even now being urged to attack these savings banks of the poor. These officials are rightly inclined to let them alone.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

August Havert Meets With a Painful Accident.

Accidents, Incidents and Personal Mention of the People About the Railway Centers.

August Havert, a laborer on the Pittsburg work train, was severely injured at Van Wert at 5 o'clock last evening. A gondola car ran over his right foot, mashing the heel out of shape. He was brought to this city late last night and taken to his home, No 146 Holman street. Dr. Stemen, who is attending the wounded man, thinks he can save the foot. Havert is married and has several children.

THE PERILS OF A BRAKEMAN'S LIFE.

From an article in the Chicago Inter Ocean written by Tony Ecker on city the following: "Take a freight train out in the open prairie on a stormy night—a night when citizens are in dread of being carried away by the gale—the air filled with sleet, and blinding snow covering everything with a glare of ice smooth as a mirror. Imagine then, if you can, the dangerous position of the brakeman. The one short blast of the whistle calling him to duty has sounded, and without any visible apprehension for the result, he shoves the lantern well up on his arm and starts on the perilous trip across the cars. Now standing, now crawling, little by little he makes his way forward, stopping at the end of every car to tighten a brake until he finally reaches the engine. A moment for rest and a chance for the warmth of the engine to thaw out his benumbed hands and he must return. Particles of snow sharp as needles are dashed into his face, and blinded, half frozen, he climbs up one side, cross and down and up again until his place is reached. When he has time he can rest and warm himself in the cabooze, but this "time" never comes to a freight brakeman until chance promotes him, or fate relieves him. Many a poor fellow takes up the burden of this life and, in the face of these countless dangers, buries his apprehensions in the hope that the future has something better in store for him. This frequently ends by making one trip too many—that trip which robs him of his usefulness in this life. Death steals along the rail swift as thought, and, hovering over the train, waves in his clammy hand the white light in the signal call, "forward." The benumbed brakeman hastily responds, and, as he falls, sees the white light change to the red one of death. The shrill whistle of the engine of fate has sounded the call "forward," and in the response he has been faithful unto death."

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

A distressing accident happened at Walcottville, on the line of the new Wabash railroad, last Sunday night. At 9 o'clock that evening Frank Weir, the paymaster for Chapman & Co., the contractors, was walking from the station down to the gravel pit. Meeting an engine he attempted to step off the track, but slipped, his head striking against a tie with such force as to render him insensible, while his limbs remained on the track upon which the engine was approaching. The wheels completely severed both feet from Mr. Weir's legs. No one witnessed the accident, and the poor fellow remained in an unconscious condition for five hours. At 3:30 Monday morning he revived and succeeded in attracting the attention of the crew of a passing train and was taken to Wolcottville, where both limbs were amputated midway between the knees and ankles. The weather was bitter cold, and this probably prevented death by bleeding. It is thought Mr. Weir will recover.

A DANGEROUS JOB.

The Electric Light company is enjoying a business "boom" that is exceedingly gratifying to the management. From all quarters of the globe come orders for machinery, and so rapidly do they pour in that it is almost impossible to supply the demand. The operative force in the factory is constantly being increased and the works, particularly the testing departments, are sometimes in operation day and night. This morning the force in the machine room was increased by the employment of the following gentlemen: E. Baker, William McCarthy, Jefferson Tyler, J. Falvey, Howard Ely and J. Richards. The machine department is under the efficient management of C. O. Cook.

SIGN OF DEATH.

Daniel Bailey has returned from a business trip to Chicago.

J. Fry has resigned as a laborer at the Pittsburg lumber yards.

Nickel Plate Brakeman Compton is off duty on account of sickness.

Sickness keeps G. Sitterling, of the Base blacksmith shop, from his duties.

Master Mechanic W. W. Atterbury, of the Pittsburg, has returned from Chicago.

C. Britton and L. Kahler, blacksmiths, have severed their connection with the Pittsburg shops.

B. H. Collins and E. T. Cory have been added to the force of helpers in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop.

Clint, the bright young son of M. S. Wilson, returned from Van Wert, Ohio, last evening and this morning went to Columbia City to attend the Christian Endeavor convention.

Pittsburg engine No. 111 was taken in the shops this morning for repairs.

Jacob Halterman, the hustler for passenger business on the Wabash, is in the city.

Master Mechanic F. W. Morse, of the Wabash, has returned from a trip over the company's new lines.

Conductor P. C. Travis is under instructions for promotion. He is a Pittsburg freight conductor.

O. K. Johnson, of the armature department, electric light works, is off duty on account of sickness.

P. P. Lyman and C. S. Munger have quit the service of the Pennsylvania company. They are machinists.

Pittsburg Firemen F. G. Parrish, S. Gabel and E. Rost have resumed their duties on the road after a brief absence.

The Missouri Pacific last week placed an order with the Baldwin locomotive works for thirty ten wheel locomotives.

Cloyd Ellenwood, formerly of the electric light works, has taken a position in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop.

Frank Cherry, who was enjoying a brief respite from his labors, resumed work in the Pittsburg shops this morning.

The Electric Light company shipped an incandescent electric light plant, 1,000 light power, to Taylor, Texas, today.

Conductor Underwood, of the Lake Erie and Western, is suffering with rheumatism in the shoulders and neck.

Superintendent A. C. F. Wichman, of the Anthony Wayne Manufacturing company, is confined to his home by sickness.

The western roads have decided to charge $1 for meals on dining cars after April 1, instead of seventy-five cents as heretofore.

Brakeman Baker, Brooks, Ferguson and Taylor have reported at the Nickel Plate for duty, after an absence for various reasons.

Conductor Kiteshun has been granted leave of absence to allow him much needed rest. He is employed on the Nickel Plate.

The Michigan Peninsular Car company, Detroit, has just commenced the building of 1,500 cars for the Columbus and Hocking Valley.

Gus Frohmuth and Adolph Frohmuth, of the Base machine shop, are out of the city repairing engines, the former at Peru and the latter at Decatur.

Nickel Plate Brakeman W. J. Carson is taking a two weeks' vacation. Brakeman J. M. Harper reported for duty yesterday, after a brief absence.

Pittsburg trainmen off duty: Engineers M. H. Durnell and M. Nolan, sick. Firemen C. Walters and L. A. Warnick, sick; Fireman G. E. Brooks, wife sick.

It is rumored that the Olds Wagon company is preparing to go into the manufacture of rocker washing machines in connection with their other extensive business.

George Wazenfeld, fireman at the electric light works, resigned yesterday. He was succeeded by Gus Freimuth, who has worked for some time in the machine department.

A train load of Englishmen, bound for Chicago and the world's fair, passed through the city over the Nickel Plate yesterday morning. The special ran as the second section of No 1.

Conductor Mogford has not been heard from since he went to Detroit, over a week ago, in response to a telegram announcing the serious illness of his mother. It is supposed the old lady is no better.

W. R. Fredericks, the Calhoun street restaurateur and a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and Miss Maggie Kelly will lead the grand march at the ball at Randall hall next Monday evening.

Joseph Ramsey, jr., will sever his connection with the Big Four as its general manager on Friday next, and will, on Sunday night, go to St. Louis to take the general managership of the St. Louis Terminal company's interests.

A car load of electrical machinery left the electric light works today for Chicago. The shipment consisted of three handsomely trimmed dynamos, in size Nos. 7, 8 and 9. They are designed for exhibition purposes at the world's fair.

Although a short month February was prolific in railway accidents on United States roads, there being 211 accidents, in which fifty nine persons were killed and 203 injured. During the month there were eighty-four collisions and 117 derailments.

Yesterday a car load of fancy wrought iron scroll work went west on the Nickel Plate. The consignment was the product of a large manufactory in Disseldorf, Germany, and is intended for exhibition at the world's fair. The workmanship and design of some of the pieces was excellent.

Fred Jenne has received notice from the Hercules Dynamite company, of Cleveland, Ohio, of a promotion to a responsible position in the branch office at Indianapolis. For the last three years he has been keeping books for his father, who is the agent of the Fort Wayne branch. He has not yet decided whether or not he will accept.

During a recent freight blockade on the Pennsylvania Central railway 200 freight cars were side tracked at Spring Fountain Park, near Warsaw. Last Saturday, upon attempting to move out the cars, it was found that the brass boxes from seventy or more had been removed by junk thieves. The loss footed up several hundred dollars to the railway company.

Frank Fisher has engaged his services to Herman Tapp, the Pennsylvania company's bridge builder. Mr. Fisher was formerly employed in the electric light works.

Pittsburg Conductor J. E. Erickson has gone to Indianapolis to attend a Masonic meeting. During his absence Guard Tucker will have charge of Erickson's runs on trains 36, 3, 1 and 29.

Machinist Rehling resumed his duties in the electric light works this morning. He was married yesterday, and is now "at home" to his friends at 148 Griffith street. Mr. and Mrs. Rehling were given a grand reception last evening and a number of the gentleman's shopmates participated in the festivities.

SHOVERS OF THE QUEER.

A Gang of Counterfeiters Uncarthed in Missouri.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 29.—Deputy United Marshal Fleming has unearthed a gang of counterfeiters in the state penitentiary. Two of the gang were arrested yesterday. J. W. Lofton, a guard, sent up for one year for murder, his term expiring yesterday, and Tom Johns, confined for horse stealing, his term expiring April 1, were the guilty parties. Four pairs of plaster of paris moulds were found, two in Lofton's guard house and two in Johns' cell, besides several counterfeit silver coins, dollars, half dollars and quarters. They were detected through some boys who delivered the coins Lofton passing them to the boys on the outside by means of strings, and the boys returning the coins they came for.

BOLD ROBBERY.

A Passenger on a Baltimore and Ohio Train Loses Money and Watch.

GOSHEN, Ind., March 29.—Sheriff Croll, of this city, received a dispatch yesterday afternoon, stating that a daring robbery had been committed on the Baltimore and Ohio passenger train near Nappanee, this state, early yesterday morning by a masked highwayman. The robber entered the train at Syracuse and covered a passenger with a revolver and relieved him of $250 in money and a valuable gold watch. He guarded his victims with the revolver until Nappanee was reached, where he jumped from the train.

Beauregard's Sabre.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 29.—The city council last night formally received the sabre of the late General Beauregard, bequeathed to Charleston in his will. The presentation was made by a special committee which went to New Orleans to receive it. After speeches by the mayor and aldermen, resolutions were adopted and ordered to be sent to the family of the testator. A public memorial meeting in honor of General Beauregard will be held on April 12.

Health, Wealth and Pleasure.

North Galveston, Texas, combines every advantage which appeals to the investor, homeseeker or invalid.

The soil is peculiarly rich and fruitful and fortunes can be made in growing pears, plums, strawberries, etc. Manufacturers will find it a factory site without an equal, as there is an abundant supply of raw materials near at hand, and the city has excellent land and water transportation facilities. Every breath of air inhaled in this delightful climate is a pure, invigorating tonic and the temperature is the most equable to be found anywhere. Sea bathing may be enjoyed many months in the year.

William Miller, No 5 West Main street, the North Galveston association's local agent, will furnish full particulars regarding this coming industrial city. The address of the general office is Box 903, Minneapolis, Minn.

FITZ AND WEBSTER

In "A Breezy Time" at the Temple Tonight.

A pair of exceedingly capable light comedians will appear in "A Breezy Time," at the Temple tonight. They are E. R. Fitz and Kathryn Webster. They are accomplished not only in comedy business but also in singing. The best part of it is that their performance is new. The pieces is full of fun and the audience will be kept in laughter and interested throughout its rendition.

Cholera in Pennsylvania.

Smickley, Penn.—We had an epidemic of cholera, so our physician called it, in town place lately, and I made a great hit with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This Remedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me. Several persons who had been troubled with diarrhœa for two or three weeks were cured by a few doses of this medicine. P. P. ESARY, Feb 6.

SCROFULOUS SORES

Lady Badly Afflicted Three Years. Tries Many Doctors Here and in England Without Benefit. Cured by Cuticura.

My wife having suffered from Scrofula sores on the back for three years, and in a critical condition for about 18 mos., and she tried all the doctors I could get, and was told to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and Cuticura, and today she is as well as she was when she first fell, and her back is as smooth as a child's. I attribute her cure to the Cuticura Remedies, and I for one can recommend CUTICURA RESOLVENT as the only real blood and Humor Cure.

H. W. JOHNSON, Conductor, 25 Sophia Street, Cleveland, Ohio.

Scrofula Ten Years

I had a running sore in my ear of scrofula, to attend for ten years. Had been treated by several physicians, but obtained no relief until I used Cuticura, which healed it in less than a few days. This is more than three years ago, and I have had no return of the disease. I consider your Cuticura Remedies unexcelled for the diseases you claim to cure. MRS. A. A. WOODWARD, Shelburne, Vt., Feb. 22nd, 1890.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism but it can be done if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert, of New Brunswick, Ill.: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right today, and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in one to three days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold and guaranteed by C. H. ROOT & COMPANY

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD READ THIS

Our full line of Boys' and Children's Clothing from such celebrated makers as Smith, Gray & Co., Dayton & Close, Peck & Hauchhaus, Are now on display.

Have you an extra stout boy?

We have clothes to fit him without making any alterations.

Our object is to make you a permanent patron of our Boys and Children's department.

We believe we can do it if we can once bring you to our store and show you the kind of goods we sell and the prices we ask.

OUR BOYS' CLOTHES

Are better made than the ordinary.

WE THINK a boy's suit should be as well made as a man's. They ought not only to appear well, but they ought to wear well and look well. Ours are built on that plan. They are made to stand the rough [illegible] kind of usage. Strong with stitching, buttons firmly sewed and sewed [illegible] buttonholes. Elastic waistbands. Suspenders placed where they do the most good. Pockets [illegible] and fitted. Edges [illegible] cloth thoroughly shrunk, [illegible] thoroughly good, because they are [illegible]. We know all about Boys' Clothing.

We make it a specialty.
